Programs Branch
Office of Air Quality

Subject: Particulate rule concerning process operations (process weight rate).

This memorandum provides additional explanation for the changes made to 326 IAC 6-3, Process Operations, since the last version that was circulated to the public dated December 21, 2001.

These changes were made for purposes of clarification or style. The changes include:

- Changes made since preliminary adoption were combined as indicated by a single underline in the “preliminary adopted and proposed for final adoption with suggested changes” rule.
- The term “operation” was revised to “manufacturing process” where appropriate.
- “Incinerator” was changed to “incineration” and “manufacturing process” was added to foundry cupolas to indicate that the exemption list in 326 IAC 6-3-1 (b) applies to manufacturing processes.
- The definition of “aerosol coating products” was moved from 326 IAC 6-3-1(b)(12) to the definition section in 326 IAC 6-3-1.5.
- Language that exempts surface coating manufacturing processes that use less than five (5) gallons a day was added to the exemption list as 326 IAC 6-3-1(b)(15).
- A definition of “particulate matter” was added to the definition section to clarify that “particulate matter” in 326 IAC 6-3-1(c) has the meaning defined in 40 CFR 60.2
- The words “work practices and control technologies” were added to the title of 326 IAC 6-3-2.
- The rule clarifies that the control device in 326 IAC 6-3-2(d)(2)(A) must be repaired so that no overspray is visibly detectable at the exhaust or on the ground.
- Additional style changes were made to be consistent with Legislative Service Agency requirements.
